ChartCo to highlight OneOcean EnviroManager solution at Monaco Yacht Show

ChartCo is at the Monaco Yacht Show, 25-28 September 2019, on stand DS40

Monaco, 25 September 2019 - ChartCo, the global leader in digital navigation is attending this year's Monaco Yacht Show. It will be emphasizing the advantages of its flagship EnviroManager solution to inform Captains and Chief Officers about the discharge of bilge, sewage, grey and black water, garbage, food waste and air emissions.

Water is an important resource for superyachts being used for cleaning, cooling and machinery as well as providing the fundamentals for life on board for crew and guests. However, its use creates various distinct streams of wastewater, and where these can be discharged can often create confusion for Captains as a result of changing regulations in different jurisdictions.

“Discharge of wastes is prohibited within 3 nautical miles from the territorial water baseline,” says ChartCo’s Head of Superyachts, Chris Warde. “However, there is an ever-growing problem of knowing where these baselines are applied from and it brings a lot of confusion for Captains to confidently know where waste streams can be discharged. The OneOcean EnviroManager application provides accurate information about baselines for Captains as well as the latest regulatory and compliance updates in one place.”

Currently active on over 1300 vessels, this innovative application is part of ChartCo OneOcean, the single integrated platform for today's compliance and navigation challenges. OneOcean enables crews to effortlessly stay abreast of regional, national and international environmental regulations, all in one place. ChartCo is committed to enabling crews and management companies to fulfil their compliance and navigational mandates simply and effectively.
