Coppercoat: Coppercoat Celebrates 25 Years at London Boat Show

Aquarius Marine Coatings Ltd manufacturers of Coppercoat and Coppercoat-Superyacht celebrate 25 years at London Boat Show, stand E038.

London January 2017 –Aquarius Marine Coatings Ltd celebrates 25 years of supplying its multi-season anti-foul coating, Coppercoat. After exhibiting at London Boat Show in 1991 as Copperbot, Aquarius Marine Coatings Ltd now provides Coppercoat and Coppercoat- Superyacht to thousands of vessels worldwide.

Coppercoat currently offers the most successful long lasting anti-foul treatment on the market. This has been developed to provide unrivalled underwater protection for sailing yachts and motor vessels. With a single treatment of Coppercoat providing fouling protection for up to 10 years or more, saving valuable time and the cost of annual applications of traditional antifouling.

During its 25 years in business, Coppercoat has a worldwide presence with its global distribution network, including many European countries as well as USA and Australia. Current achievements for Coppercoat include launching Coppercoat Superyacht and debuting at Monaco Yacht Show and METSTRADE show. Coppercoat are also the official antifoul supplier for The Clipper 70 fleet and a partner for the 2017-18 race edition which will start in September 2017.

Ewan Clark, director of Coppercoat, explains: “Coppercoat was introduced to the antifoul market 25 years ago. The last two decades have allowed us to become highly experienced in the application of our products to all substrates. Several of the boats treated back in the early 1990’s have now enjoyed over 20 years of immersion with no anti-foul reapplications necessary. Celebrating 25 years in business at London will let us explain the distinctive advantages of Coppercoat and Coppercoat- Superyacht, allowing diverse markets to benefit from this anti-fouling revolution.”
