JL Audio Marine Europe: JL Audio UK Targets German Distributor To Meet Growing European Demand

The buoyant export sales for the Dorset based audio specialist has led to a rapid expansion of its European distributor network and representation in Germany is vital to underpin this success.

Following a hugely successful first year as JL Audio's distributor for most of Europe, JL Audio UK was recently appointed sole European distributor for the JL Audio marine range opening up the all-important German market and German speaking countries.

JL Audio UK's Managing Director Paul Baker attributes the company's European success to its strong dealer network and the superior quality of its products, "Germany is an important market for us. We know that German consumers appreciate their technology and quality so we are confident that our products will be very well received. Having local representation in Germany is an essential part of our growth in Europe. "
